

Celebrating first anniversary with a new addition to the Metro team

In Greek, Metro, derived from Metrio, means "in the middle" or "meeting place" and it is this idea of community that drives the vision for Metro Bakery. Metro has a communal and welcoming ambience, where you can enjoy a Giancarlo coffee, exclusive to Metro, with an authentic Greek or Italian pastry. Metro offers traditional baklava, kataifi, galakatobouriko, cannoli, tiramisu and lots more. Metro also offers a full breakfast menu and delicious light lunches. In Greek and Italian culture, food is about bringing families and friends together - every meal is a celebration and the staff at Metro extend the same hospitality to their patrons as they do their family and friends. Joining the staff this week is pastry chef Chris Rule. Chris has 20 years experience in the art of making bread and pastries. You can now buy your artisan bread, baked fresh daily at Metro. Come and sample Almond croissants, French tartlets, Death by Chocolate cake and a huge array of other pastries baked fresh each morning. If it's a birthday or celebration cake that you are after or sweet or savoury platters for that special occasion or corporate function come in and see the staff at Metro and let them organise everything for you. Metro is very excited to be able to offer its own gluten free bread and gluten free fruit loaf. Available on the menu or you can purchase your own loaf to take home with you. Celebrating their first birthday last week, the staff want to thank the community for their overwhelming support and are looking forward to lots of new and exciting things in 2011.
